

THURSDAY EVENING, OCT. 7, 1909.

From Washington.

(Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette.) Washington, Oct. 8.

Mrs. Annie Besant, president of the Theosophical Society, of New York, has a new idea of hell. When a man dies, she says, he slips to another plane and goes through the mental pleasures and pains that he had here on earth. The drunkard would not cease to know the terrible craving for liquor. He would experience it intensified a hundredfold, she declares, because his substance would be more subtle and more subject to vibrations of pleasure and pain. And he would be compelled to drift in and around the places he had drunk in while on earth. He would know that the barkeeper sat a foaming schooner on the walnut board before him. He would know that a glass filled with ice and seltzer and whisky sat on the bar. Nay, he would be conscious even if a highball sat untasted, for some reason, on the bar, but he would not connect with it. And thus he would go on for years and years, suffering untold and untellable agonies, until finally the consciousness of his fiber would be refined to that point where he would receive another chance on earth, whereupon he would be reincarnated into another physical body and begin gathering experiences again.

The flop of the democratic congressmen on the organization of Congress, which gave to Speaker Cannon practically all of his old-time power, and for which Mr. Parsons charges Tammany was partly responsible, has caused bitter feeling in Georgia, and as a result of that vote the Georgians who voted for Mr. Cannon are now facing opposition for re-election as they rightly deserve. Lending in the fight against them is the Atlanta Journal, which editorially denounced their failure to stick to the party, and with the aid of the republican insurgents, trim Mr. Cannon's claws. The fight should not be confined to Georgia.

The president while in Tacoma Wash., last Friday, promised to attend another expedition to be held on the Pacific coast in 1915 in celebration of the completion of the Panama canal. He said the date was beyond his term of office but that his interest in the Panama canal was so great that he readily gave his promise. This is an authoritative admission of another postponement of the opening of the canal and it looks now as if not only Mr. Taft but his successor might serve out their terms before the completion of the "big ditch."

A curious protest was made recently against the employment of women clerks in the Park of England. One of the shareholders raised the subject at the half-yearly meeting of the court of governors. "They should not be here," he said. "Women ought not to be in this establishment. They cannot keep a secret. You know they cannot. It is impossible." But the number of women bank clerks is on the increase both in England and in this country.

SPEAKER CANNON says he will demand an investigation of the charges of Representative Herbert Parsons concerning his intrigue with Tammany Hall. Such an investigation cannot now be recorded. But, says the Philadelphia Record, the House should elect another speaker than Cannon in order that the committee of investigation shall be free from his influence and shall conduct the inquiry with impartiality.

WHAT with the $10,000,000 recommended by President Taft for irrigating the western deserts and with the other tens of millions of expenditure in various ways the Payne-Aldrich tariff and the one per cent. tax on corporations will not begin to supply the money. There will be nothing left for it then but the tax on incomes.

THE first issue of the "Impartial Reporter and Farmers' Journal," published at Front Royal, has been received. This paper will be a semi-weekly, and its manager says will be carefully and conservatively edited, with a strong corps of correspondents. The paper is well printed and ably edited.

It is stated that old-line republicans believe a campaign has been begun to pave the way for the return to power of Roosevelt. Why, this campaign was begun before Mr. Roosevelt left the White House.

WASHINGTON'S claim of 65,000 increase of population since 1900 is one of the staggering evidences of the enormous increase in the number of federal officeholders, suggests the Springfield Republican.

William Randolph Hearst once defeated for mayor of New York by George B. McClellan and later defeated by Charles E. Hughes for governor of the State, was nominated for mayor last night at a mass meeting of 1,000 of his admirers at Cooper Union. This action was taken despite his authoritative statement Tuesday evening that he would not be a candidate.

News of the Day.

Joint maneuvers of the regular army and the National Guard are a thing of the past. The resulting benefits were small.

The new torpedo boat destroyer the Reid yesterday developed a maximum speed of 34.548 knots on a trial at Rockland, Me.

Dr. Thomas A. Bedgood was acquitted yesterday at Brewton, Ala., of the murder of James A. Gleason, whom he shot. The defense simply proved that Gleason made scandalous remarks about Mrs. Bedgood.

Announcement was made at the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce yesterday of a big reduction of 2 cents a gallon in the basic price of whisky. The decline, which is from $1.37 to $1.35, is due to the drop in the price of corn.

Lewis Giesel, former treasurer of Highland, Ill., shot and instantly killed his wife, Addie, at their home, in the presence of their five children yesterday evening, and then brushing aside the little ones went into the kitchen, barred the door and fired a bullet into his own brain.

Dudley Buck, whose name was seen perhaps, often than that of any other American composer on concert and choral programmes, died suddenly yesterday at the home of his son, Dudley Buck, Jr., the violinist, in West Orange, N. J. The composer was born at Hartford, Ct., in 1859.

Abbott Lawrence Lowell was inaugurated president of Harvard University yesterday with impressive ceremonies. President Lowell later conferred honorary degrees upon 30 of the guests present, including that of Doctor of Law upon Edwin Anderson Alderman, president of the University of Virginia.

According to an article by Rev. Louis O'Donovan, secretary to Cardinal Gibbons, in the Catholic World, the Catholic Church cannot consistently with its traditions, allow non-Catholic ministers to become priests unless they promise celibacy. This, he says, may be said to apply also to married converts who wish to enter the priesthood.

Typoid fever is still on the increase in the District of Columbia, according to the weekly mortality report of the health department for the week ended October 2, made public yesterday. The report shows that 27 new cases were reported during the week, increasing the total number, after deducting 22 cases discharged, to 153.

Waycross, Ga. was swept by a fierce wind and electrical storm late yesterday afternoon, which resulted in great property damage, and cost the life of A. P. Farham, editor of the Waycross Herald. Many houses were unroofed, and every telephone, telegraph, and electric wire went down. It was one of these wires that killed Mr. Farham. He stepped from his office to see what damage had been done, and as he gained the street he was struck in the breast by a dangling live wire and instantly killed. The property loss will reach $25,000.

Capt. Francis H. Ross, graduate of West Point and former army officer, shot and killed himself yesterday afternoon in the office of the New Mexico Development Company, of which he was treasurer, at 68 William street, New York. Grief over the death of his wife a year ago, and his own ill health, are supposed to be the causes. Capt. Ross went to New York with his wife and four children from San Francisco, his native city about fifteen years ago. He was 65 years old. When he shot himself, girl stenographers ran panic-stricken from his office. The police found him dead, with a bullet hole in his temple.

Virginia News.

Mrs. Mary S. Revere, widow of Henry Revere, died at her home on Fredericksburg Wednesday, after an illness of several months, aged 76 years.

A wholesale jail delivery took place at Christiansburg Tuesday night when three prisoners made good their escape by sawing their way out of jail with instruments evidently furnished them by friends on the outside.

Derailment of a coal car in the yards of the American Locomotive Works yesterday evening caused the wreckage of a span of the viaduct connecting Richmond with Chestnut Hill and Highland Park, and the complete cutting off of that suburb.

W. Gray Moseley, of Richmond, was arrested in Paris last night following a dispute in a billiard cafe, in which a Frenchman named Desro had his skull fractured by a blow from a billiard ball. Moseley has been charged with assault by Desro, whose condition is serious.

Garland Compton was yesterday convicted of the murder of Isaac Fulk last April in the Circuit Court at Gate City, and sentenced to eighteen years in the penitentiary. Fulk struck Compton with a rock and ran. The latter pulled his pistol and killed him. They were coming out of Sunday school at Fort Blackmore.

A warrant was issued yesterday for Mr. Sidney Hutzler on complaint of Mr. William E. Herr, who charged that Mr. Hutzler attempted to assault Mrs. Herr. Mrs. Herr alleged that she had on previous occasions been insulted by Mr. Hutzler. Mrs. Herr is 46 years old. The home of the Hutzlers near Richmond, and that of the Herrs at Norfolk. Mr. Hutzler has not been arrested.

The Richmond city school board has declared the contract with the Virginia School Supply Company, for 1,200 chairs, void, and the superintendent has been directed to advertise for new bids. This action follows the discovery that the chairs recently shipped covered that the chairs originally accepted were not from a sample, which later disappeared from the room in which it was locked. It is stated that the grand jury will probe into the matter, and it may be that action will be taken by that body to place the blame for the removal of the sample chair.

Miss Della Slaughter, daughter of Mr. W. J. Slaughter, of the Plains, and Dr. John Hunter Selby, a young physician, of Warrenton, were married at 5:30 o'clock yesterday evening at Grace Church, The Plains. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. J. Norwood, Rev. E. S. Hicks, of Warrenton, assisting. The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. J. W. Slaughter. The bridesmaids were Misses Catherine Foster Peyton, Estelle Welch Hable, Frances Lee Fleming, Mabel Fletcher, Alice Elizabeth Wilson and Edna Bach Saunders. The matrons of honor, both sisters of the bride, who wore yellow satin and carried yellow chrysanthemums, were Mrs. Marion Speeden, of New Jersey, and Mrs. William Scott McLeod, of New York. Dr. Selby was attended by Dr. Harry J. Howard, of New York, as best man.

Today's Telegraphic News

Spain and Morocco. Madrid, via Hendaye, Oct. 7.—A Spanish army of 150,000 men in Morocco with 150,000 reserves in readiness to reinforce the army in the field at the slightest warning, is the scheme today presented for the consideration of King Alfonso by the leading military authorities and members of the cabinet. The leading generals and the state officials held a conference last night which lasted until nearly day-break today and evolved this as the best means of coping with the situation which confronts the nation.

The situation in the interior continues to grow worse, and the civil authorities are with difficulty keeping the disaffection from becoming rebellion. Little is to be expected of the army, which is almost entirely in sympathy with the populace.

Gibraltar, Oct. 7.—It is learned here today that an armored train has been forwarded to General Marina's command near Melilla for use on a narrow gauge railroad which the Spanish troops opposing the Rif tribesmen are building to connect Sétuan and Nador. Both of these points are being strongly fortified and heavy guns are being placed in position to repulse any attack. It is evident that General Marina has conceded that the subjugation of the Rif will mean a long campaign and is preparing for extended operations.

Viaduct Damaged.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 7.—A second attempt to destroy the New York Central viaduct at Elk and Chicago streets with dynamite was made early today. The steel pillar under which the charge was placed was bulged and twisted and the entire structure thrown out of plumb. The explosion also resulted in breaking the windows in every house east of the Central tracks in Chicago and Elk streets, and in some cases demolishing the fronts of the buildings. The entire front of the saloon of Joseph McMahon was blown in. There was no one in the house at the time. A piece of steel was driven through the home of former Alderman Jeremiah Gordon, but luckily no member of the family was injured. No arrests have been made.

Jeffries and Johnson.

London, Oct. 7.—James J. Jeffries declared here today that he was tired of the blows being made by Jack Johnson, and that he would make him agree to fight as soon as he (Jeffries) returns to the United States next week, or brand him a coward.

Jeffries is staying at the Waldorf Hotel and has already caused the management much woe. A French countess who occupied a suite under that of the American pugilist demanded that her rooms be changed as she was unable to sleep because Jeffries spent much of his time exercising. Other guests complained that his training in the hotel disturbed them and the management insists that it will be glad when he sails.

Indian Confesses Murder.

Woodland, Cal., Oct. 7.—Wilbur Benjamin, a 22-year-old Indian, is closely guarded in the local jail today following his confession, according to the sheriff, that he assaulted and murdered 15-year-old Violet Gilmer, daughter of a farmer, while she was going home from school along a lonely road on Tuesday. The sheriff has sworn in a special force of deputies to prevent mob violence. The body was found by the girl's father hidden in a clump of bushes and horribly mutilated. Benjamin in his confession, is said to have declared that he never saw the girl until he met her walking along the road alone, and when she repelled his advances he choked her and killed her.

Horsewhipped by Young Woman. Philadelphia, Oct. 7.—Enraged over the defamation of her character by the man she was to have married, Miss Zelton, 21 years old, a school teacher of New Brunswick, N. J., after a search of more than a week, today ran down her former fiance, Charles Snyder, of Plainfield, N. J., in this city and severely thrashed him with a horsewhip.

Snyder attempted to escape on foot but failing in this, boarded a trolley car. The girl followed and drove him from the car by sharp cracks over the head. Snyder finally made his escape by boarding an elevated train.

Miss Elkins Refuses to Talk.

New York, Oct. 7.—Miss Katherine Elkins, with her mother and her two brothers, Stephen B., Jr., and Davis, returned to New York today on board the steamer Adriatic. They were met at the pier by Senator Elkins and swarms of reporters. Miss Elkins positively declined to utter one word. Davis Elkins, her brother, was less uncommunicative. "If there is any engagement it is without my knowledge," he said. "If my sister met the duke this summer in Europe, as reported, I don't know of it."

Mutiny on a Schooner.

New Orleans, Oct. 7.—Mutiny ending in battle on the coastwise schooner John, in which six men were wounded, has been reported to the customs officials here by Spiro Ossovich, of the vessel. Four Greeks, the captain said, seized the ship and his crew to take possession of his vessel that they might take part in smuggling Chinese into this country. The fight lasted nearly half an hour and the boat was almost scuttled.

Divorced.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—Exclusive social circles are buzzing with gossip today following news that a decree of absolute divorce has been granted Mrs. Jarvis Hunt, horse fancier and society leader, from Jarvis Hunt, a wealthy architect. The decree was granted by Judge Singer, at Wheaton, after evidence supporting a statutory charge had been presented.

Portuguese Steamer Wrecked.

Lisbon, Oct. 7.—The Portuguese steamer Bastos Reis with a crew of 43 has been wrecked off Avero. The bodies of seventeen members of the crew have already been washed ashore.

New York Stock Market.

New York, Oct. 7.—At the opening this morning a brisk demand for stocks was evident while there was an absence of selling pressure. Strength was maintained all through the first hour, steel common advancing nearly two points.

[COMMUNICATED.] STAND BY YOUR LEADERS.

In a month from now the voters of Virginia will be called upon to select their chief executive and the other officers who shall guide the ship of state. The gentlemen who heads the ticket was not the choice of the majority of the voters of this city, neither was his running mate, the candidate for lieutenant governor, but other sections of the old commonwealth lined up in solid phalanx and the result was that William Hodges Mann and J. Taylor Eliason were nominated, and Providence permitting, will be our highest state officials for four years, beginning on February 1st next. It is true that a great many were sorely disappointed at the result of the last primary. None could have been more so than the defeated statesman—Mr. Tucker—but to prove his loyalty to principles, which he cares more for than for office, he has buckled on the armor and is giving battle with telling effect to the foe of democracy. Just so with Mr. James E. Eaton; there will be no call to duty to which he will give a deaf ear and he stands ready, as he has always stood, to lead his means and talent to the party the future of the grand old state must depend on. If men like those spoken of above can bow so gracefully to the will of the majority of the voters of the state what reason on earth can the voter have for sulking or voting against the ticket nominated. That the gentlemen who, if elected, will control the affairs of the state, are worthy of the best democratic support which can be given them, there is no doubt. They have been faithful over a few things and have proved recreant to the trust confided in them, and as rulers and guides of the affairs of Virginia, it can be safely said that the people can have no fear. The thing to do is to get to work and ferret out the weak spots in the democratic ranks, if there be any, and buoy up those of an unforgiving disposition and remind them that as one swallow does not make a spring, neither does one election permanently establish any policy for the people. The power that creates is that which can destroy. As voters believing in the domination of the democratic party and its ultimate triumph nationally, let's get busy and roll up a majority for Judge W. H. Mason the size of which has not been equaled since the new constitution went into effect. The state had a taste of error of their way, and it could be safely said if it were not for several fat offices in this city, when the chairman of that party called a meeting he would hardly get a quorum. The republican party keeps up an organization in this State, and it is generally conceded that the desire for office is the propelling power, but it can be better told in a remark credited to a readjuster-republican, who has long since passed over the river. He said that during the struggle for the supremacy of the readjuster party, of which he was a member, after a spirited debate in Fairfax county, he was riding home on horseback and was presented with a large coon which one of his admirers had just killed. It was early in the morning and he had nearly reached home, when he met three boys—two colored and one white—who wanted the coon. Being wrapped up in the cause he exposed he asked the boys as they by their politics. The white boy said he was a democrat because he was taught that it was the best party. One of the colored boys said he was a republican because he had heard his father say that that party freed the negro. The other colored boy, with eyes and mind centered on the fat coon and knowing the gentleman's politics, said: "I'm a readjuster, sah." When asked why he was a readjuster, he replied: "Kase I want dat coon." It is said he got it. It is a fact that there are about a dozen active republicans in this city and about six want the postoffice and the others are willing to divide up the remainder of the "leaves and fishes." Read, if you please, the platform upon which Mr. W. P. Kent was nominated and which, he says, he will stand by to the letter. Perse, if you will, his evasive answer to a question propounded to him in regard to his stand on the liquor question and then, if one is not too biased to taste fair, tell the voter what he can expect from the republican candidate in the event of his success. If to some people the future success of the liquor traffic is the only consideration in the affairs of a great state like Virginia, what source of comfort have they in the published declarations of Mr. Kent and the well known attitude of the republican party on this issue. But like the old maid, when under the tree praying to Jehovah for a man of sterling habits, and without success, in the anguish of her soul after beseeching the Almighty for many days, finally concluded with this exhortation: "Any old kind of man, Lord, will do," the republican party is this time drawing a will-o'-the-wisp, and like a drowsy man grabbing at a straw, are basing their hopes of success on the supposed disagreement of the democrats on the liquor question and a "dressed off" division in that party regarding that issue, and are relying upon this for recruits and will take up any issue for profit and prey upon it as the vulture on the carcass of a dead animal. But the principle of Jeffersonian democracy, notwithstanding the assault of its enemies, will stand unburied amid the wreck of matter and crash of worlds. Let the republican party, if they will, fill this city and state with literature and pious promises of "full dinner pails" promised by republican orators in the event of the success of a republican president for the last eight years, it should matter little to the workingman. Not only is the pail empty, but a great many can not get a pail and these will not be caught in a trap again. Stand by the nominees of your party, and by an doing the integrity of the state will be kept above party.

Letter to T. V. Rishell.

Alexandria.

Dear Sir: The way to buy paint is to go by the name. There is a name never seen on a sign paint or weak paint or short-measure paint. Devos.

There are a hundred different names in paint. Some are sham; some weak; some short-measure; and some all three. If there is another such paint as Devos lead-and-zinc, we don't know it. There are a few fairly good paints; a few; only one Devos. A gallon Devos is worth a gallon-and-a-half of those few.

Mr. Aaron Elias, of Plainfield, N. J., always used 15 gallons of mixed paint for his house. Last spring he bought 15 gallons of Devos and had 4 gallons left.

Yours truly,

P. W. DEVOS & CO.
